New Methods for Profit in the Stock Market	Mylar covered. Book Condition: Good. First. A classic book in the field of investing! Very scarce First Edition with First Issue Jacket! One of the very few on the market. Hardcover. Original jacket. Dark green boards. Tightly bound. Minor bumping. Jacket has minor edge wear.
Sequential Analysis of Statistical Data: Applications	First issue. An exceptional reports in which Freeman's groundbreaking work was first announced. This is the companion report (to Wald's theory of probability) on applications by H.A. Freeman appeared in July 1944. The term restricted meant that the Defense Department considered the results significantly important to the war effort and, therefore, decided not to disseminate them to the general public for a while. Nevertheless, a 10-page synopsis of Wald's results, entitled 'Sequential Tests of Statistical Significance' [second report offered], was allowed to be circulated as a memorandum in April 1944 to a select group of individuals including some statisticians who are well known today: R.E. Bechhofer, J. Berkson, G.W. Brown, J.H. Curtiss, G.B. Dantzig, W.E. Deming, H.F. Dodge, J.L. Doob, B. Epstein, W. Feller, F.E. Grubbs, S. Kullback, J. Neyman, E.G. Olds, H. Scheffé, J.W. Tukey, J. von Neumann, and S.S. Wilks in the United States, and G.A. Barnard, M.S. M.S. Bartlett, R.A. Fisher, J.O. Irwin, E.S. Pearson, E.J.G. Pitman, R.L. Plackett, and F. Yates in Great Britain." Thus, a complete set of the original reports pre-dating Wald's journal paper Sequential Tests of Statistical Hypotheses first published in The Annals of Mathematical Statistics, June 1945. First report: Small 4to (230 x 180 mm), original printed wrappers. Upper right corner with a slight bump. Previous owners initials to front wrapper W.L.D. Stamped RESTRICTED. IX, (1)179, (3: blank) pp. Second report: 8vo (244 x 153 mm). Original printed wrappers, fine. 10, (2: blank) pp. Third report: Large 4to (285 x 220 mm). Original ring binder containing the six sections in original printed wrappers together with the two appendices, aslo in wrappers: [S1:VIII,16]; [S2:II,22]; [S3:II,22]; [S4:II,22]; [S5:II,18]; [S6:II,18]; [A1:II,14]; [A2:II,22] pp. In very good condition. Also included is the mimiographed distribution list of the third report: 1 sheet typescript, printed on both sides. All three reports are in the rare original issue with the text: "This document contains information affecting the national defense of the United States within the meaning of the Espionage Act, 50 U.S.C., 31 and 32, as amended. Its transmission or the revelation of its contents in any manner to an unauthorized person is prohibited by law". OCLC lists 8 copies of the first report, 1 of the second (National Institute of Standards and Technology), and the third report is not located in any library.

The Transformed Cell: Unlocking the Mysteries of Cancer	Book Condition: Near Fine. Dust Jacket Condition: Very Good. First Edition. 8vo - over 7 ³ / ₄ " - 9 ³ / ₄ " tall. The story of hope, and of a devoted doctor's exciting advances in halting the spread of cancer through immunotherapy and gene therapy. A gripping medical mystery as well as a rare view of the trials and triumphs of scientific research. Dr Rosenberg's quest began in 1968 when he encountered a patient whose cancer had mysteriously disappeared. Could the body itself, he wondered, have mounted a massive immune response to the cancer? From this point on, Dr Rosenberg set out to see if immunotherapy, and later gene therapy, could succeed where surgery, chemotherapy and radiation had failed. The first successes came in 1984, when he viewed a patient's X-ray and saw evidence of tumour shrinkage.
